Mr. J. E. Zachary and wife, of Adairsville, Ga., are visiting relatives and friends in this country at this time. Jim, as we always called him, used to live in this country, and we have gone to parties with him, we have been in debating societies with him and went to shows with him, and he was a jolly, good fellow, and we were real glad to meet up with him again. To meet with old friends like that brings up old memories, and carries one back to the time when the world looked bright and one was free from care and thought. It would not be ten years before we would be rich as Jews. But old Father Time is a great leveler of all things. So it has leveled down our fortune so that if we make a living we think we do well. Mr. Zachary is in the tombstone business, and will be glad to be of any service to any and all.

Miss Harriett League, of near this place, fell off a wagon the other day and was knocked senseless for a time, and was thought to be dead, but she rallied after she was worked with a while, and she is thought to be out of danger.

Rev. Dr. Matthews is protracting a meeting at this place at the present writing. Dr. Matthews is a forceful and logical speaker, and carries conviction to his hearers.

Mr. John Richey, of near Fair Play, was shot and killed by Bill Powers on the evening of the 18th inst. It was a daring and atrocious deed. It appears that Powers had went to Mr. Richey's house pretending to want to swap horses with him, and had eaten supper with him and fed his horse. After supper he caught out his horse to go home, and Richey was standing by the horse with his hand on its neck, when some one passing on the road attracted Richey's attention. Powers said, "Look here, Richey, and as he turned his head to him he put the pistol in his face and blew out his brains. Powers then put spurs to his horse and made his escape. Powers was captured later and is now in the Oconee jail. He says he don't care what they do with him so they don't break his neck.

Our country is getting pretty dry at this writing.

Mr. Steve Smith is about the only man we know of that is selling old corn and fodder. Why don't all our farmers make more corn and less cotton? and our country would be in a much better condition.

What do you think, Mr. Editor, of of human nature anyhow? We noticed a writer not long ago condemning another writer for using personal names, and before he got through he had a string of personal flings in the shape of "T's" and "J's" as long as our fingers. Now, what do you think of human nature? It depends, we suppose, altogether on whose bull is gored.

Rev. W. C. Barton, of Fair Play, S. C., is teaching a school at Pine Grove, just over in Oconee.

We made one of a party to visit Clemson College on the 9th inst. We drove to the park and ate dinner under the spreading oaks, then drove around the park and viewed the broad acres of fine bottom corn, which did us a great deal of good. Then we went to the Calhoun residence and inspected his heirlooms, among which was a chair that belonged to George Washington. It was an old-time armchair, without rockers, and we took a seat in it and thought perhaps we would receive some of the virtue of that great and good man, and maybe someday we could out some man's cherry tree, if we never get to be president. We looked at a clock made of beaver skin, which was presented to Mr. Calhoun by an Indian chief, and it was very thick and soft, but the moths are eating the lining away from the skin. We think the trustees ought to take some steps to preserve it. We also saw Mr. Calhoun's piano, which is short, low, flat instrument, and in a good state of preservation. There is also a large, dangerous-looking sawfish bone which we never took much stock in. We went from there to the college building, and there Mrs. "Old Rosin de Bow" thrust the baby into our arms and skipped with the young folks to go through the building. Well, we dropped into a chair and cuddled the baby while, with a determination that is born of despair, we shouldered the baby and began ascending flight after flight of stairs until we made six and arrived at the clock tower, where we found some workmen putting hands on a clock face as a substitute for a real clock. Then we went to the chapel, which was beautifully decorated, which we were posed was done for commencement. Then we went to the Calhoun Literary Society room, which is furnished beautifully with fine carpets and opera chairs and with a nice stand for the speaker, and a nice table with an album on it, with the pictures of the great literatures of the day. There a good lady, Mrs. J. J. Haley, (bless her) proposed to carry the young "Rosin de Bow" awhile. We then went to the library and there we saw what we thought was a vast sight of books, but those college folks don't think they have got many, because there are two rooms in the library that they have not commenced putting books in yet. Why can't some millionaire present to our college a fine library, so that our boys can have the best advantage possible to get a good education? We then paid our respects to Dr. P. H. E. Sloan, the secretary, whom we found to be very pleasant courteous and obliging. From there we went to the machine shops, and found that building well equipped with machinery to teach the boys to be master mechanics, which, we think, is a very important branch of their study. By this time Mrs. Haley had surrendered the baby to us, and a big fat man that could not walk for the oppressive heat, came along in a buggy and we persuaded him to take the baby, and while we were in the machine shops he drove off with it, and oh! such a time as we had with Mrs. "Old Rosin de Bow" when she found out it was gone. Mr. Editor, were you ever kicked by a mule or struck by lightning? But never mind, we got over it after so long a time, and that was when the fat man came back with the baby, and then we started to the conservatory. Before we got there we missed our fine bird dog and so we landed the ladies at the flower house and went back to the college to hunt him up. We went to Dr. Sloan and he said we had better watch his clerks or they would look him, and sure enough we went in the hall and whistled, and there was the dog bark somewhere up stairs. Dr. Sloan came out and said he heard the dog bark, and we sent a man up to the library and unlocked the door and the dog bounded out, and Dr. Sloan gazed the clerk and went away as happy as could be. We never went through the cheese factory and the creamery and the steam laundry and the chemistry building, so we will have to go back and take them in, and also the textile building and the U. S. experiment station. We saw Calhoun's statue and Clemson's portrait, but we never saw Tillman's portrait in all our rounds, and he has done so much for the college, too. We got home and the baby cried a good deal through the night, and Mrs. "Old Rosin de Bow" knewed that the big fat man had hurt the baby, but we argued to her that fat people were always good and kind to children, but we would like for you to convince a woman against her will, for she would be of the same opinion still. OLD ROSIN DE BOW.

Your correspondent has just been talking with some of the best and most conservative farmers of the neighborhood, J. T. Green, J. G. Harris, E. B. Rice, Sr., and others in regard to the crop prospects around this place, and they all estimate that there will not be more than 40 or 50 per cent of a fair crop, and there had been several good showers, and crop prospects were fairly good here until two weeks ago, but they are falling very rapidly now. But notwithstanding the gloomy outlook the new enterprises going up here make our people lively and cheerful.

A new firm, to be known as the "Cox Drug Co.," with Drs. J. M. Holcombe, W. R. Haynie, and Mr. J. S. Cox, copartners, has been formed for the purpose of operating an up-to-date drug store in the room now used by Mr. J. T. Cox for drugs. They have employed Dr. B. A. Graman, of Charleston, S. C., as pharmacist. Dr. Graman is a licensed pharmacist, graduating in 1891, and for several years past has been the pharmacist for the City Hospital of Charleston. He comes highly recommended not only as a competent druggist, but as a perfect gentleman as well. This firm will begin to do business September 1st.

Dr. Stokes is keeping pace with the progress and spirit of the place, too. He has employed Mr. Walter S. Richardson, lately connected with Dr. Dendy in the drug business at Pelzer, and a thorough competent druggist, to assist him in the conduct of his active and increasing business.

Mr. W. K. Stringer has employed Mr. John McCuen, of Princeton, Laurens County, to clerk for him. Mr. McCuen will commence work next Monday.

The Woman's Missionary Society of Baptist Church will serve refreshments at the tennis grounds next Friday afternoon after five o'clock. These little social gatherings are invariably very pleasant, indeed, and it is hoped a liberal patronage will be given the ladies Friday afternoon.

A series of meetings will begin at the Methodist Church Wednesday night.

Messrs. C. W. Rice and W. B. West spent a day and night at Cedar Falls and Rock Shoals, Greenville County, the past week.

Mr. W. K. Stringer and sister have returned from the mountains.

Miss Lois Henderson, of Greenville, has been employed to teach the primary department and music of the High School next session. Miss Henderson is a graduate of Chocoma College, of Greenville, and is a young woman of rare teaching ability. All arrangements for the opening of school have now been made, and it is hoped that those who are interested about sending their children will see to it that they are present on the opening day. A few days delay places the student at great disadvantage. XXXX.

News from Around Trinity.

The protracted meetings have closed and all the visitors have returned home, much to the sorrow of some of our boys.

Miss Carrie Martin, a most lovable young lady of the Hopewell section, has been spending a while with relatives around Lebanon. She reports having a pleasant stay.

Messrs. John, Arthur and George Martin have purchased a store at Pendleton, where they are carrying on a large business under the name of Martin Brothers. We wish them much success.

Mr. Warren Hammond, of Piercetown, came through our section recently. Come again, when you are not in a hurry.

Rev. W. B. Hawkins assisted by Rev. J. F. Singleton, have closed a glorious series of services at Hopewell. They preached faithful and we trust their work will not prove to be fruitless, but may they have an abundant harvest.

Last Saturday evening a cloud was seen to rise in the North, and within a short time there came a mighty wind, which caused trees and a few shanties and outbuildings to fall before it. Then the rain began to pour, and for a few minutes it seemed that everything was going, but then it ceased and a hail followed. Much damage was done to cotton and corn, but we have heard of nothing serious.

Again the death angel has visited our community carrying with him a beloved mother, Mrs. Margaret McDaniel, the widow of the late W. H. McDaniel, who preceded her to the grave some twenty-seven years ago. Mrs. McDaniel was in her seventieth year. She has not been able to get out of her house in thirteen years, having been a cripple, but her death was brought on by paralysis. She died last Sunday and was buried on the following Monday at Hopewell. She leaves eight children and a host of friends to mourn her death. It seems sad to give up a mother, the best friend on earth, but the Holy One knows best, and we should submit to His will.

Some few months ago the cruel hand of death carried off a sweet little girl of two summers, Rubie Williams. Then going away he stayed only a short time to return and carry away a noble young man, Mr. Tommie King, of 17 years, and now he takes an aged lady. True are the words, "The old must die and the young may die." So let the people take warning and prepare for death, for it is one thing that we will all have pass through. Wishing God's richest blessing upon all and especially upon the families that sorrow on account of death, we are

Mrs. Eveline Neighbors Newton's Birthday Party.

Axeman of future generation, stay your cruel hand, spare that spreading ivy-clad oak that stands by the old gate-way at Mr. John S. Newton's, near Little Garvin Creek, three miles east of Pendleton. Cut it not 'till tell you of the surprise party on the 17th inst., the 68th birthday of the much-beloved wife of Mr. John Newton. He is a well-to-do, "stay-at-home-and-attend-to-your-own-business," honorable farmer of 75 years.

Aunt Polly Hinton, Mrs. Emeline Crenshaw and Miss Carry Neicele, a charming young lady of Rock Hill, with children and grandchildren, met here in a reunion to give honor to the much afflicted, labor-worn, yet happy couple. The wreath of smiles which each of them wore under their white crowns told us it was a glad day with them.

Here came Messrs. Leard, Willis and Calhoun Newton, John W. and John C. Evatt, Charley Boggs, Matthias Richardson, James Wyatt, with wives and children, baskets of dinner and sacks of horse food for a picnic day. Out of about fifty present, there were nineteen grandchildren, six step-grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

If you had seen the glad meeting of brothers, sisters, nieces, nephews, uncles, aunts and friends, the exchange of babies and the real fellow-feeling; then had you been with us around the forty-foot table to help lift its burden and had a taste of Aunt Carrie Taylor's cabbage slaw you would put up the axe and leave the oak that gave us shade. The music, melons, and lemonade added a pleasant feature. In the entire absence of dogs and darkeys, the serving of such others was the most pleasant part of the occasion. XX.

—No wonder that Chicago complains of New York for winning away so many of its dergymen! The researches of a careful statistician show that no city in the country pays as well for a sermon as Gotham. In the West $3 per discourse is the ruling price, but in New York the average fluctuates between $18 and $30, the latter being the latest quotation.

Bicycle economy. The money you pay for a new Wheel is sometimes only part of the price. The bicycle member gets the rest. But if you buy a Viking or a Crescent Bicycle to begin with, from Sullivan Hardware Co., you need have only a bowing acquaintance with the wheel tinker.

What are the improvements on the "Champion" Mowers? Newspaper space costs something and we can only recite one feature. The "Champion" abolishes the old troublesome, ever-breaking, ever-choking pitman, and substitutes a device worth its weight in gold. Sullivan Hardware Co. will tell you all about these Mowers.

Iron King Stoves are considered the best. Buy one. Osborne & Osborne Sole Agents.

If your Piano or Organ needs tuning or repairs, it will amply repay Mr. Jas. Raddock of The C. A. Reed Music House, who will guarantee perfect satisfaction to all.

Fall Goods

Almost every day now. We have put great thought and study on selecting our Stock for the Fall and Winter Trade, our idea being to try to be able to give more Goods for a Dollar than ever before. Let drawbacks be what they may, we want to make our Store so popular that we will do the largest season's business that we have ever done.

We thank our friends for the great patronage they have given us thus far this year.

Not a penny has been spent with us that has not been appreciated. We go further and say that we feel grateful to every one who has come to see us, whether they traded or not. Our study is to give full value for every cent spent with us.

Everybody is invited to come to see us. We can't get our values squarely before the public unless the people come and investigate.

COUNTRY MERCHANTS will find that we are prepared for them.
